Prolonged drought during the winter period with little rainfall from October to March with no frosts. Well distributed rain in April and May, a warm summer with scarce water reserves in the plants. Our harvest began on September 12th with excellent ripeness and low yields per hectare.

Austere but intriguing with its aromatic range with predominating notes of earth, licorice and spices. It unfolds with dynamism and liveliness on the palate, well-integrated oak and succulent tannins.

San Roman 2012 was bottled in March 2015 after 24 months in French and American oak barrels both new and used.
