Mild temperatures and persistent rain throughout the cycle. After a mild and rainy winter, budbreak was uneven due to the drop in temperatures that accompanied the end of April and the beginning of May. Flowering ended in early June with a uniform fruit set. Occasional rain in the summer boosted the water reserves up until the harvest, which lasted from 30 August to the end of September with occasional spells of rain.

TASTING

Diaphanous nose with fine notes of cherry and floral echoes, silky and gentle on the palate, with juicy and polished tannins.
